A high court in London has frozen the assets of MTS Finance, a subsidiary of Mobile TeleSystems, tying up at least $208 million to ensure the execution of a decision by the International Court of Arbitration in London.

The arbitration court ruled on a case filed by Nomihold Securities in November that MTS must exercise its option to buy 49 percent of Tarino from it for $170 million and pay $5.88 million in dividends. Tarino is controlled by the Kyrgyz cellular operator Bitel.

An appeals court upheld that decision on Jan. 5, but MTS refused to honor it.
