

Muchnik's Picks: Antoha MC, Megapolis and More Music on the Weekend in Moscow

By Andrei Muchnik

January 27, 2016

Antoha MC

Antoha MC

Antoha MC is a relative newcomer who is taking the Moscow music scene by storm. He is a one-man act who raps, plays the trumpet and even dances along to his music, which is best described as a blend of hip-hop, acid jazz and reggae. Sometimes he sounds like Mihey and Jumanji, the legendary reggae act from the 90s. On Thursday, Antoha MC will present his new album, Rodnya (Relatives), which has a slightly different sound reminiscent of 80s electronic music and Kino.

*16 Tons. 6/1 Ulitsa Presnensky Val. Metro Ulitsa 1905 Goda. Tickets from 1400 rubles ($17).
Thurs. at 8 p.m.*

Triagrutrika

Triagrutrika

Triagrutrika is a rap group from Chelyabinsk that came up with a unique name by choosing a word with zero hits on Google. They have been around for more than ten years — so now there are thousands of hits — and became popular nationwide after signing to Gazgolder, a label founded by Basta. Triagrutrika raps about life in big cities. Their lyrics have a universal appeal with young people, whether they live in Chelyabinsk or Moscow.

Yotaspaces. 11 Ulitsa Ordzhonikidze. Metro Leninsky Prospekt. Tickets from 300 rubles ($3.50). Thurs. at 8 p.m.

Megapolis

Vkontakte

Megapolis

Megapolis has an unusual history for a Russian rock group. They started out in the late 1980s and released several successful albums. Their hits "Karl Marx Stadt" and "Volga" were on the playlists of all major radio stations. Then the band's frontman Oleg Nesterov shifted from making music to producing other artists at his own record label, Snegiri. He also published a science fiction novel. During the past five years, Megapolis have released two new albums and Nesterov is now working on reinterpreting the songs of Vladimir Vysotsky. At the concert on Saturday expect both old hits and the group's latest material.

16 Tons. 6/1 Ulitsa Presnensky Val. Metro Ulitsa 1905 Goda. Tickets from 1400 rubles ($17). Sat. at 8 p.m.

Contact the author at artsreporter@imedia.ru

Original url:

<https://www.themoscowtimes.com/2016/01/27/muchniks-picks-antoha-mc-megapolis-and-more-music-on-the-weekend-in-moscow-a48353>