Heading to St.Petersburg over the next few weeks and wondering where to eat out? We've got it covered. Whether you want to wine and dine in traditional Russian style or grab a quick bite between seeing the sights, St. Petersburg has something to offer everyone. Here are our top picks.

Bonch

Bonch is a must for all coffee lovers near Saint Isaac's Cathedral. The floor-to-ceiling windows are great for people watching while you sip on a perfectly crafted cappuccino.

16 Bolshaya Morskaya Ulitsa

Hamlet + Jacks

Hamlet + Jacks

A place to wine, dine and enjoy people watching. The European menu has an emphasis on fresh, innovative and artistically presented food. Pair your meal with a glass of biodynamic wine from artisan producers.

2 Volynsky Pereulok

Schastye

Schastye has a bright, minimalist aesthetic and serves up delicious breakfasts, brunches and light meals. Kick-start your day with one of their "super bowls of happiness" — luxury granola with all the goodies — and if you're feeling indulgent, perhaps a Bellini Twist.

24 Malaya Morskaya Ulitsa

COCOCO

COCOCO

COCOCO's slavic fairy-tale interior features stunning wooden panels inlaid with wildlife scenes. The menu also has Russian under- tones, but dishes are revamped and reinvent- ed. Try the "my mother's favorite flower dessert" — a dark chocolate pot, creamy chocolate mousse and edible petals.

5 Konyushennaya Ulitsa

Mansarda

Mansarda

Mansarda's roof terrace is the perfect place to while away a long summer evening in St. Petersburg. Order a cocktail and try not to let the businessmen and ladies carrying tiny dogs put you off from enjoying the view.

3-5 Pochtamtskaya Ulitsa

Goose Goose

A downstairs bistro and upstairs restaurant bring a little bit of Italy to the "Venice of the North." The charming interior has walls painted in the style of Mondrian. Try the black risotto with crab or the delicious spinach ravioli.

27 Bolshaya Konyushennaya Ulitsa

Pyshechnaya

It's criminal to leave St. Petersburg without trying one of the deep-fried donuts covered in icing sugar from this legendary cafe. It's not much to look at, but the place is packed noon to night with tourists and St. Petersburg natives alike.

Go to Health

If you're in the mood for a light bite or want something green and nourishing, head to Go to Health, which offers health-conscious customers a Pan-Asian mostly vegetarian menu. Try the salmon rolls with truffle sauce or the zucchini salad with arugula and feta cheese.

37 Syezzhinskaya Ulitsa

Restoran

Restoran

Restoran serves up high-end Russian cuisine in a simple interior with arched windows and white decor. Its great location on Vasilyevsky Island, elegant aesthetic and professional service have placed it firmly on the St. Petersburg gastronomic map.

2 Tamozhenny Pereulok

Grad Petrov Die Kneipe

This restaurant-brewery has more than a few German undertones to its menu and interior. Heavy wooden furniture, dimmed lighting and a menu featuring beer sausages, pretzels and fried cheese make it feel like a tavern in the Black Forest.

5 Universitetskaya Naberezhnaya

Koryushka

Koryushka

Dine on Georgian food and feast your eyes on the sites of St. Petersburg from Koryushka's panoramic windows. The terrace with views of the Neva is the perfect spot for relaxing with friends on a summer afternoon.
