

Russian Protesters Gather Outside Presidential Administration Building, Dozens Detained

By Reuters

August 10, 2019

Kremlin.ru

Russian riot police ringed off the presidential administration building in Moscow on Saturday after a crowd gathered nearby following an opposition rally and hundreds more were seen walking toward the area chanting, Reuters witnesses said.

Related article: Nearly 50,000 Protest for Fair Elections in Moscow

Police detained at least 120 people, according to the OVD-Info police-monitoring website, after more than 500 people were seen moving toward the area, many of them young and chanting: "Putin is a thief."

Embed:

У Администрации президента прямо сейчас: «Путин - вор!» pic.twitter.com/vKN0meAEiM

- Ann (@IfSoAnn) August 10, 2019

Tens of thousands of Muscovites staged Russia's biggest political protest for years earlier on Saturday, rallying to demand free city-wide elections in spite of a government crackdown.

Original url:

https://www.themoscowtimes.com/2019/08/10/russian-protesters-gather-outside-presidential-administ ration-building-dozens-detained-a66801