Unfriended

Russia on Friday formally designated the United States and the Czech Republic as "unfriendly states" amid the biggest crisis in ties between Moscow and Washington in years.

The Czech embassy will be allowed to employ no more than 19 Russian nationals and the U.S. embassy none at all, Moscow said. EU chief Charles Michel tweeted the bloc's "full solidarity" with Prague as he insisted the move "undermines diplomatic relations."

Ally assistance

Armenian Prime Minister Nikol Pashinyan said Friday he asked Russian President Vladimir Putin for military support after accusing Azerbaijani troops of crossing the country's southern border and trying to claim territory.

Pashinyan also said that French President Emmanuel Macron "is ready to provide military assistance [and is] considering the possibility of putting the issue on the agenda of the UN Security Council."

Spy games

A former officer in the U.S. Army's elite Special Forces unit the Green Berets was sentenced to 15 and a half years in prison on Friday for spying for Russia.

Peter Rafael Dzubinski Debbins, 46, pleaded guilty in November to providing national security information to Russian intelligence operatives.

According to prosecutors, the U.S.-born Debbins was recruited by the Russians as early as 1996, before he had joined the army but after several trips to Russia, the native country of his mother.
